The number may be different from what you heard yesterday, depending from the rate at which water is flowing out of the mine. That number may also be different from what it was yesterday, as you can imagine.

I expect the Regional Administrators, Emergency Response Coordinators and scientists on tonight's media call will be able to tell you more.

I would like to confirm the latest number for the amount of mine waste water as of now?
Thanks a lot.

Do you just want to know if/when there'll be a statement? I could try finding out and get back to you.

Or do you have other questions?

At the moment, I expect statements would most likely be coming out of Denver. That may change, but for now, I would ask them.

Hi Robert,

Are you guys putting out a statement until then? Thanks, Tatiana
